again yesterday and declined more than cent a pound from Thursday's close ket was sustained for a brief period after the call by scattered covering folterests that sold on Thursday offered et, the excellent weather in the cotion It and the conflicting labor news from abroad. General business was animated. especially on the decline, which uncovered numerous stop loss orders.

The market started unchanged to 5 points net higher, except in January, which was off 5. Bears mentioned the decreased Fall River business, sales there for the week showing a drop of 30,000 pieces to 30,000 pieces. The weather map, which was clear, was regarded as bearish. The only precipitation was a fall of .34 at Pelestine and of .92 at Columbia and at Corpus Christi. Temperatures ranged from 62 degrees at Bosell to 84 at Charleston. In the second hour selling increased, the market falling to new low ground for the movement. The afternoon decline extended to 12.37 cents for December, or 60 points below the preceding final. The uptown element was an active seller.

According to the Census Bureau the production of linters from August 1, 1920, to May 31, 1921, was 423,605 bales, against 602,862 bales in the preceding corresponding season. Liverpool brokers traded both ways. Liverpool cables were better than expected at the start, but the English market dropped later in its session in sympathy with the local decline. Throughout the day support was scattered and largely profit taking by Wall Street and outside shorts. At one time in the afternoon the market recovered to 30 points up from the day's lowest pricets. Renewed selling near the close wiped out most of that recovery, however, and left the market 44 to 50 points down from Thursday's final bids. The local spot market was quoted at its down from Thursday's final bids. local spot market was quoted at Inasmuch as the consumption of oil in the United States increased from 200,000,000 barrels to 500,000,000 barrels in ten years, it is certain that this country will have to depend upon foreign oil and principally Mexican oil for fuel purposes in the future.
